Project Life Cycle

RDZ
DESIGN

1) Design Stage

In the design stage, we work with you to create your concept. This can be anything from a rough idea to a fully conceptualized vision and drawings. Your feedback will help develop the concept.

2) Pre-Construction Stage

Once the design is finalized, it's time for the pre-construction stage. During this stage, we'll start with required submissions for approval, begin preparing your space for future layout.

This may include demolishing, partitions, cables installation, all the necessary electrical and plumbing components and any other fixtures that will be included in the final design.

3) Construction Stage

In the construction stage, our company focuses on building according to each and every specification.

4) Post - Construction Stage

Once the construction stage is complete, it's time to move on to the post- construction stage. The decorations, FFE and final details are verified.

By placing the focus on the groundwork, the floodgates for ingenuity & innovation are opened, possibilities become infinite.

A collage of various artworks including clowns, a rabbit, an astronaut, and abstract figures. The collage is composed of numerous small, overlapping images. In the top left, there's a drawing of a rabbit-like creature with a drum. Next to it is a clown with a red nose and a striped shirt. To the right is an astronaut in a blue and yellow suit. Below these are more abstract and colorful drawings, including a clown with a red afro, a person's face, and a car. The text "Some of our showcase artists" is overlaid on a dark, semi-transparent shape in the center of the collage.
